INTRODUCTION

The European Training Foundation (ETF), in collaboration with the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development (EBRD), the International Labour Organization (ILO), the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) and United Nations Industrial Development Organisation (UNIDO), continues the series of events dedicated to knowledge and experience sharing on skills development in the context of the COVID-19 crisis and recovery agenda.

Improving the resilience of citizens, companies and public, private and non-governmental organisations is crucial as the European Union, EU Neighbourhood region and Central Asia countries brace for a new surge in COVID-19 infections and growing restrictions. The socio-economic impact of the health crisis is currently deepening and will stretch into 2021. The education and employment policy makers and stakeholders are posed with a double challenge – manage the current effects of the crisis and explore new sets of policies, programmes and delivery mechanisms; to make sure they fit the new socio-economic paradigm in post-COVID-19 times as digitalisation and sectoral transformations deeply change the demand for skills, accelerate labour market transitions and require robust social protection mechanisms for wider categories of people.

The EU Neighbourhood and Central Asia countries, like all the other countries around the world, are faced with several challenges and difficulties in delivering services and support schemes in the areas of initial education, up/re-skilling and employment. These challenges include: (a) insufficient digital infrastructure to deliver online services; (b) reduced opportunities for providing on the job training, internships, apprenticeships; (c) insufficient staff to deal with increased number of registered unemployed, (d) need to build up the professional competences of the teaching and training staff to deliver education and training measures in online or hybrid format; (c) difficult planning and targeting of activation and training programmes due to uncertain economic conditions.

The event will focus on priorities to build up and strengthen the resilience of people, companies and education and employment systems and explore solutions for a fair and inclusive recovery. More specifically, the webinar will:

- Provide opportunities to review the type, targeting and effectiveness of active labour market measures, implemented in the crisis context, with a focus on the skills development dimension;
- Discuss the COVID-19 toll on young people and explore key actions for inclusion, resilience, skills and employment, including the potential of regional cooperation to improve youth's skills and labour market prospects;
- Share experiences on how skills are a priority for companies' survival strategies during the crisis and future development, with a focus on inclusion, innovation, and greening to foster competitiveness, resilience and social fairness.
